

CARDINAL

Mrs. Martha Tinkler served as the freshman and sophomore English teacher at Brighton High School until her death in 1965. She leaves a legacy of former students who ^{love} live the written word. "Miss" Martha inspired many to "be the best that they could be" long before the army took that saying as their own. She was a lady, wonderful mother and wife and a spiritual leader for her family. "Miss" Martha loved flowers. In the spring you rarely saw her without a posey of some sort pinned to her dress. She was a very humble woman and looked for special traits in ALL of her students that she could nurture, just as she nurtured her flowers. We were truly her flower garden at school.

One special project that I remember as a student, was correspondance between our little school and one in Brighton, England. We spent many week^s, with her guidance, photograhing our town, writing about our community and school, making scetches of our studies and even sending recordings of music to this "twin" school. It was just one way that "Miss" Martha broadened out horizons.

"Miss" Martha was the Beta Club sponsor. She worked tirelessly in this area. Picnics, trips to conventions and ^{meetings} were a small part of her support. Even though Beta Club was an honor club she required ^{good} citizenship be an important part of a student's character.

Her example touched many lives in a genuinely positive way. Her influence did not stop is 1965 at her death, but continues even today.

The teachers and students of the Brighton School wish to pay a tribute of love and respect to the memory of MRS. N. D. TINKLER who passed away March 3, 1965. "Miss Martha" as she was fondly called by her students taught in the Brighton school for sixteen years and today many students and former students are bowed in grief and in gratitude for the life she lived in their midst.

She was an earnest scholar and a careful, patient teacher. In her home, in her church and in her school she was a tower of strength, a channel of God's mercy, a source of inspiration, and truly a fine example of a clean heart and a right spirit.

Possessed with a love for people, she was a guiding light not only to her children but to her many friends in the public school and in the community. We are grateful for the many years of her friendship, her wise counsel and her wholehearted devotion to the teaching profession. She was generous with her gifts and with her time. She was loyal to all phases of the school work.

"What in life can bring more joy
Than to direct the life of a girl or boy?
Her duty like the great Divine
Was to direct and train the human mind."

"She had the honor I would say to help life's future on its way."

"Miss Martha" was our leader in many things. She was our Beta Club Advisor. But above everything else she was our teacher. As a teacher she filled her mind with lofty thoughts and shared them with others. One of the great things that makes life worth while is heart-to-heart friendship. Many come into our lives but few come into our hearts to stay. "Miss Martha's" love and devotion as a true friend will forever remain in our hearts.

The Junior Class has been outstanding in their history at Brighton High School. They have shown themselves to be hard working and loyal in school spirit. A successful prom has been their goal and they have been tireless in achieving it. Car washes, bake sales, and magazine sales were just a few of their projects.

The Juniors have the background to make good Seniors and we know that they will fulfill this challenge.

This has been a good year for the Beta Club. The seventeen members have been enthusiastic in their efforts for the Club. The Beta Club was responsible for the popcorn machine at ballgames. They sold candy again during the fall. Almost all the group enjoyed the trip to the State Convention in Nashville in April.

Throughout the year we have tried to fulfill our over-all goal - to help individuals improve personal, family, and community living. One of our chapter's greatest achievements is its 100 per cent membership enrollment. Everyone has shown enthusiasm and interest in the programs which have varied from fashion shows to the problem of school dropouts.

Through the maze of numbers and initials, the touch and smell of glue, spray and tape, the constant flipping through cards and the checking in and out of materials, the school library stands as an integral part of the school program. The right material "for the right person at the right time" is our motto.

MISS GRACE SIMONTON,
Librarian

Library Service

Good bulletin boards attract people to the library.

Career file is an important part of vocational guidance.

Much time is spent in preparing book orders.

It is necessary to sort book orders by publishers.

Book cards must be placed in books before shelving.

Putting books back on the shelf is a daily task.

The magazine rack is a popular place--magazines must be kept up to date.

Lists are made of overdue books.

All cards must be placed in the card catalogue.

Junior-Senior Prom Held for Graduates

The Brighton Junior-Senior prom was held May 14 at the Holiday Inn, South Third Street in Memphis. Music was provided by Fantastic Charms.

Helen Tinkler, president of the junior class, welcomed the seniors and the response was given by Edward Brammer, senior class president.

The newly elected "Who's Who" list was presented by Barbara Washam and Ronnie Bramble.

Pat Malone and Brenda Akins gave the class prophecy which placed the seniors of '65 ten years later.

Mary Rose Smith was crowned Prom Queen by the Charms.
