TIME OUT

Ya-hoo!

"Dadburn! I've got it!"

There's always one out of tune, Johnny!

"I get the funniest requests!"

Casanova Casey!

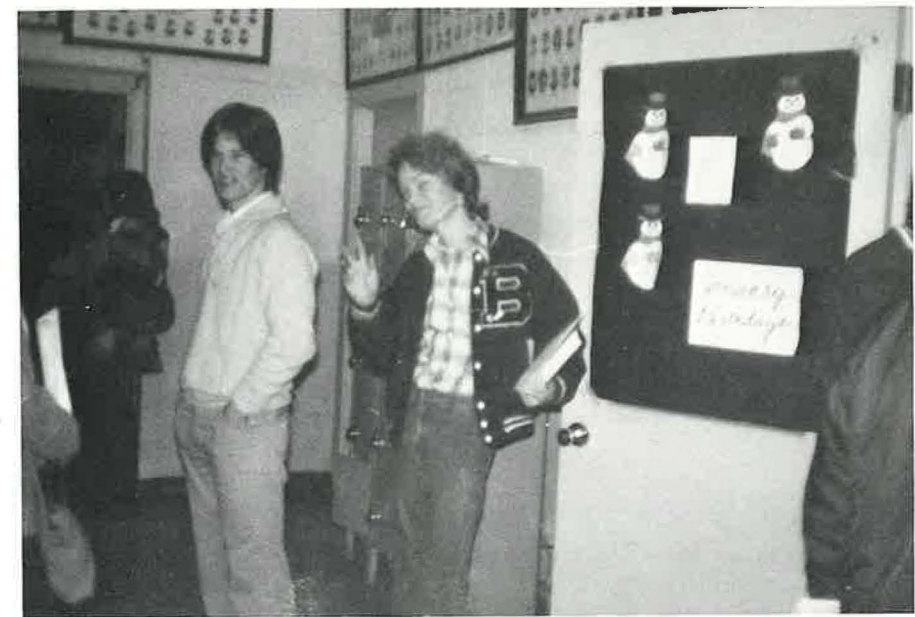

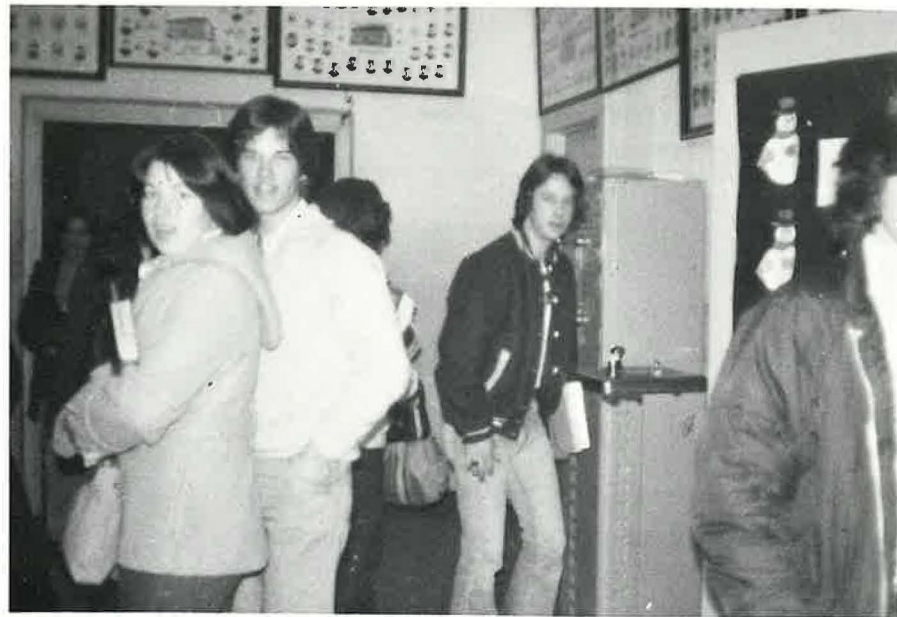

Wow! Another day!

"Cool it, Sherry! I'll take care of this!"

Close your mouth, Glenda!

Aw, it was nothing!

Who in the world is that?

No hurry. That's just another fire drill!

Brighton Green Thumbs?

So, that's what a greenhouse looks like!

Leggs?

Exams?

"Where's" the girls?

The rendezvous!

Think, Gwen!

Mrs. Arey has cast a spell!

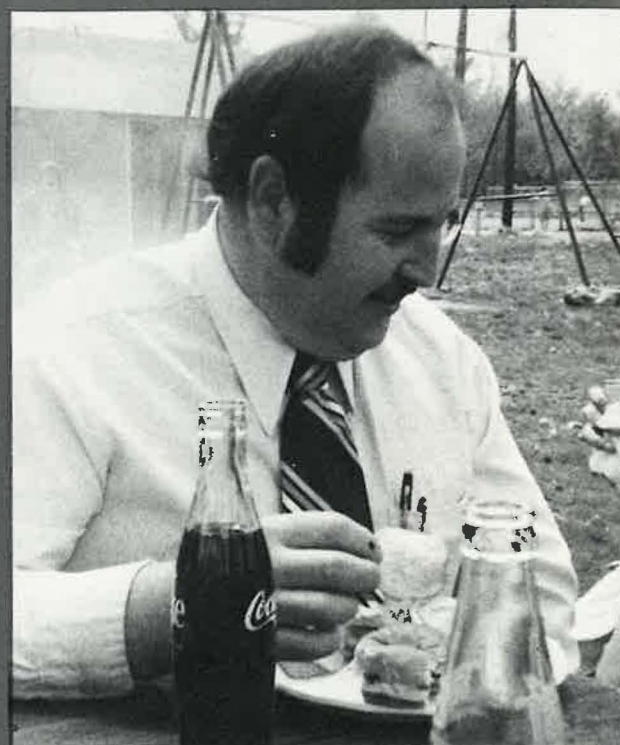

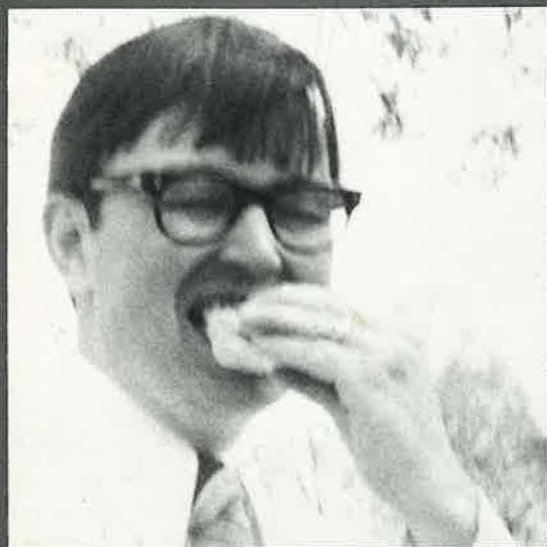

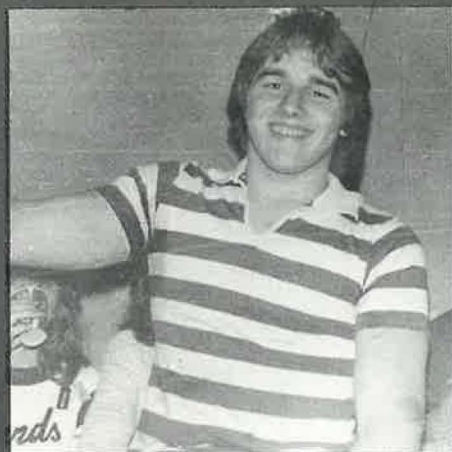

Hmm?

The great escape!

"While the cat's away. . .!"

Graduation is a celebrated time, a time for joy;
 It's high point in the life of every girl and boy.
 As you get your diploma you think, Oh Boy I'm Free,
 I Can Do What I Want, No More Hassles, Now I
 Can Be Me!

But as you step through that door, with your
 diploma in your hand,
 You discover the real world, and you're still under someone else's command.

The government has you numbered, pollution
 circles your nose,

Murders are committed around you, but the population still grows and grows.

Inflation, starvation, energy shortage, crime
 and war,

You didn't expect this to greet you when you walked through that door.

When you were still at home, safe in the world
 of your mom and dad,

You remember that anything you needed or wanted or wished for, you had.

But you can't always live a sheltered life, you have to try it on your own,

You must prove that you can stand on your own
 two feet, after all you're now considered grown.

No matter which direction you go, college,
 marriage or working day by day,

You have twelve years of schooling behind
 you to support you along the way.

Who knows, maybe someone here tonight will make the world a better place to live in,

So that the bad times are a thing of the past, to be referred to as way back then.

But most important, as you leave here tonight,
 you carry with you more than education,

You have the love and guidance of your parents, which you must carry on to the next generation.

Graduation is a celebrated time, a time for joy;
 It's a high point in the life of every girl and boy.
 — Suzanne Moffatt

THE FFA CREED

I believe in the future of farming, with a faith born not of words but of deeds — achievements won by the present and past generations of agriculturists; in the promise of better ways, even as the better thing we now enjoy have come to us from the struggles of farmer years.

I believe that to live and work on a good farm, or to be engaged in other agricultural pursuits, is pleasant as well as challenging, for I know the joys and discomforts of agricultural life and hold an inborn fondness for those associations which, even in hours of discouragement, I cannot deny.

I believe in leadership from ourselves and respect from others. I believe in my own ability to work efficiently and think clearly, with such knowledge and skill as I can secure, and in the ability of progressive agriculturist to serve our own and the public interest in producing and marketing the produce of our toil.

I believe in less dependence on begging and more power in bargaining, in the life abundance and enough honest wealth to help make it so — for others as well as myself and playing square with those whose happiness depends upon me.

I believe that rural America command will hold true to the best traditions of our national life and that I can exert an influence in my home and community which will stand solid for my part in that inspiring task.

The Creed was written by E. M. Tiffany, and adopted at the 3rd National Convention of the FFA. Revised at the 38th convention.

DEDICATION

To Mr. Rodney Eubank and The Covington Leader:

We the members of the 1978 Annual Staff dedicate this year's annual to you because you simply deserve the honor for so many reasons. One reason we feel you deserve this honor is the innumerable hours and hard work that you have offered to help us make this annual the best possible. We knew we could depend on you and your services, which we did many times. For this we thank you, Mr. Rodney and The Covington Leader.

Sincerely,
The 1978 Annual Staff
